

immune system from stem cells

A European research team have discovered that blood stem cells don't just ensure the continuous production of blood cells, they also remember previous infectious encounters, which helps them provide a more rapid immune system response in the future. immune system from stem cells